

Becoming a Skilled Counselor

Richard D. Parsons
Naijian Zhang

COUNSELING AND PROFESSIONAL IDENTITY

Series Editors: Richard D. Parsons, PhD and Naijian Zhang, PhD

Becoming a Skilled Counselor—Richard D. Parsons and Naijian Zhang

Research Methods for Counseling—Robert Wright

Group Work: An Introduction for Helping Professionals—Robert Conyne

Introduction to Professional Counseling—Varunee Faii Sangganjanavanich and Cynthia A. Reynolds

Becoming a Multiculturally Competent Counselor—Changming Duan and Chris Brown

Counseling Individuals Through the Lifespan—Daniel Wai Chung Wong, Kim Hall, Cheryl Justice, and Lucy Wong Hernandez

Career Development and Counseling: Theory and Practice in a Multicultural World—Mei Tang and Jane Goodman

Counseling Assessment and Evaluation: Fundamentals of Applied Practice—Joshua C. Watson and Brandé Flamez

Ethical Decision Making for the 21st Century Counselor—Donna S. Sheperis, Michael Kocet, and Stacy Henning

Counselor As Consultant—David Scott, Chadwick Royal, and Daniel Kissinger

Counseling Theory: Guiding Reflective Practice—Richard D. Parsons and Naijian Zhang

Becoming a Skilled Counselor

Richard D. Parsons

Naijian Zhang

West Chester University of Pennsylvania

Los Angeles | London | New Delhi
Singapore | Washington DC

Los Angeles | London | New Delhi
Singapore | Washington DC

FOR INFORMATION

SAGE Publications, Inc.
2455 Teller Road
Thousand Oaks, California 91320
E-mail: order@sagepub.com

SAGE Publications Ltd.
1 Oliver's Yard
55 City Road
London, EC1Y 1SP
United Kingdom

SAGE Publications India Pvt. Ltd.
B 1/1 Mohan Cooperative Industrial Area
Mathura Road, New Delhi 110 044
India

SAGE Publications Asia-Pacific Pte. Ltd.
3 Church Street
#10-04 Samsung Hub
Singapore 049483

Acquisitions Editor: Kassie Graves
Editorial Assistant: Elizabeth Luizzi
Associate Editor: Maggie Stanley
Digital Content Editor: Lauren Habib
Production Editor: Eric Garner
Copy Editor: Gretchen Treadwell
Typesetter: Hurix Systems Pvt. Ltd.
Proofreader: Susan Schon
Indexer: Sheila Bodell
Cover Designer: Candice Harman
Marketing Manager: Lisa Brown
Permissions Editor: Adele Hutchinson

Copyright © 2014 by SAGE Publications, Inc.

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced or utilized in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publisher.

Printed in the United States of America

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Parsons, Richard D.

Becoming a skilled counselor / Richard D. Parsons, Naijian Zhang.

p. cm.—(Counseling and professional identity)

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 978-1-4522-0396-6 (pbk.)

1. Counseling. 2. Helping behavior. 3. Counselor and client.
4. Human services. 5. Social service. I. Zhang, Naijian. II. Title.

BF636.6.P368 2014

361'.06—dc23

2012045692

This book is printed on acid-free paper.

13 14 15 16 17 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Contents

Editors' Preface xiii

Authors' Preface xv

Acknowledgments xix

PART I: COUNSELING: A PROCESS AND A PROFESSION 1

Chapter 1: Counseling: Helping as a Professional Practice 3

Introduction 3

Helping as a Natural Human Experience 4

Counseling as a Helping Profession 5

The Formality of Professional Helping 6

The Expanded Goals of Professional Helping 10

The Process of Professional Helping 13

The Focus of the Helping Process 16

The Characteristics of a Professional Counselor 18

Self-Awareness 18

Facilitative Values and Disposition 24

Procedural Knowledge and Forward Thinking 25

Professional Identity 29

Challenges Encountered on the Road to Being a Professional:

Recognizing One's Responsibility 41

Maintaining Professional Competence 42

Employing Best Practice 42

Advocating for Improved Quality of Life 42

Fostering Improvement of Counseling as a Practice and Profession 43

Taking Care of Self 43

Counseling Keystones 43

Additional Resources 44

References 44

Chapter 2: Counseling: The Practice of Facilitating Change 49

Introduction	49
Counseling: An Intentional Process of Change	50
Elements of the Counseling Process	54
A Caveat	54
The Elements	56
Working Jointly	59
Discovering the Client: Needs, Goals, and Resources	63
A Plan, a Strategy, and Then Action	67
Case Conceptualization	68
The Treatment Plan	71
The Organic and Dynamic Nature of Helping	71
Change: Movement Along a Continuum	74
A Continuum of Change	74
Counselor Interventions Along the Continuum of Change	75
The Fluidity of Stages	81
Challenges Encountered: Counseling Is Not Formulaic	81
Working With Children	81
Counseling Clients With a Multicultural Background	82
Working With Reluctant or Resistant Clients	85
Counseling Keystones	87
Additional Resources	88
References	88

PART II: THE ELEMENTS AND DYNAMICS OF COUNSELING 91

Chapter 3: The Counseling Relationship: A Unique Social Encounter 93

Introduction	93
Counseling: More Than a Social Encounter	94
The Counseling Relationship: Intentionally Created and Purposively Directed	94
Setting the Stage	95
The What , Why , and How of a Working Alliance	99
The What : Characteristics of a Working Alliance	99
The Why : Understanding the Value of and Need for a Working Alliance	100

The How : Counselor Disposition and Skills Necessary for Creating and Maintaining a Working Alliance	101
Counselor Attitudes and Dispositions Supporting a Working Alliance	101
Counselor Skills of Communicating Genuineness, Nonjudgment, and Empathetic Understanding	107
Challenges to the Development and Maintenance of a Counseling Relationship	120
Challenges Emanating From the Client	120
Challenges Emanating From the Counselor	122
Challenges Emanating From the Client–Counselor Dynamic	123
Counseling Keystones	123
Additional Resources	124
Readings	124
Web Resources	125
References	125

Chapter 4: Identifying What Is: Probing the Client’s Issues 129

Introduction	129
The Obvious Is Not Always So Obvious	130
Moving Toward Intimate Disclosure	130
Exception to “Normal” Progression of Disclosure	134
Skills Used in Identifying the What Is	135
Questioning	135
Encouraging	139
Clarifying	141
Challenging	142
Summarizing	143
Informing	146
Interpreting	152
Moving From the Facts of the Story to the Meaning	156
Focusing the Client Inward	157
Probing for Meaning	157
From What Is to What Is Desired	161
Counseling Keystones	161
Additional Resources	162
Readings	162
Web Resources	162
References	163

Chapter 5: Goal Setting: Identifying What Is Desired 165

Introduction	165
Why Goals?	166
Goals: Clear, Concrete, and Achievable	167
Specificity	168
Measurability	168
Attainability	170
Result	170
Time	170
Gain	171
Optimism	173
Appropriateness	175
Legitimate	177
Simplicity	178
Change Model and Goal Setting	179
Special Challenges and Considerations	180
Client's Constricted Views	180
Client's Confusing Strategy With Goals	181
Not Knowing Where to Start	182
Moving On to Strategies	182
Counseling Keystones	183
Additional Resources	183
References	184

Chapter 6: Moving From What Is to What Is Desired 185

Introduction	185
Intervention Planning: Not Static, Nor a One-Time Event	186
The Use of Theory and Research as Guides to Intervention Planning	186
Theories: Framework for Making Meaning	187
Theories: All Equally Valuable and Useful?	187
Theories of Counseling: A Rich History	188
Contemporary Theories	188
A Model of Change and Goal Achievement	190
Identifying Pathways to Client Goals	190
Working With Exceptions	191
Brainstorming Creative Options	193
Assessing Possible Pathways	198
Implementing a Plan	204
Challenges to Progress	209

Client Resistance	210
Clients With Special Needs	210
Clients Exhibiting Reactance	210
Counseling Keystones	211
Additional Resources	212
References	212

Chapter 7: Practice Accountability:

An Ethical Mandate and a Practice Necessity 215

Introduction	215
The Practical and Ethical Impetus to Practice Assessment	219
Responding to Stakeholders	219
Professional Identity	220
Ethical Response	221
Assessing the Progress and Outcome of Counseling	221
Formative Assessment	222
Summative Evaluations and Outcome Measurement	227
Assessment as a Guide to Practice Decisions	232
Supervision	232
Referral	232
How to Make a Referral	234
Termination	236
Challenges to Accountability	238
Human Complexity	239
Defining Issues and Outcome	239
No Consensus	241
Limited Training in and Valuing of Accountability and Outcome Assessment	242
Counseling Keystones	243
Additional Resources	243
Readings	243
Web Resources	244
References	244

PART III: COUNSELOR AS PROFESSIONAL 249

Chapter 8: Counselor Competence:

An Ethical Precondition to Successful Intervention 251

Introduction	251
Education, Training, and Supervision: Fundamental to Competence	252

Education and Training: The Fundamentals	253
Supervision: Facilitating Movement of Student to Professional	262
Working With Qualified Professional Supervisors	262
Peer Consultation: Supporting Competence	263
Continuing Education: Avoiding Technical Obsolescence	266
Best Practice as Evidence Based	267
Evidence-Based Practice: A Matter of Ethics	267
From Theory to Empirically Supported and Evidence-Based Techniques	268
A Final Thought	269
Counseling Keystones	269
Additional Resources	270
Readings	270
Web Resources	270
References	271

Chapter 9: Care for the Counselor 273

Introduction	273
Professional Burnout	274
Causes	274
Warning Signs	276
Prevention and Intervention	278
Compassion Fatigue	280
Symptoms	280
Causes	282
Prevention and Intervention	283
Personal Well-Being: Fundamental to Competence	284
Counseling Keystones	285
Additional Resources	289
Readings	289
Web Resource	290
References	290

Chapter 10: The Unfolding Professional Identity 293

Introduction	293
The Why of Professional Identity	294
Value for the Individual Counselor	294
Value for the Counseling Profession	294
The What of Professional Identity	295
History	295
Philosophical Foundations	296

Roles and Functions	301
Advocacy and Professionalism	302
Ethics	304
Professional Pride	306
Developing Counselor Professional Identity	307
Assessing Unfolding Professional Identity	308
Counseling Keystones	311
Additional Resources	312
Professional Associations	312
Readings	312
References	312

PART IV: APPLYING WHAT WE KNOW 315

Chapter 11: Samantha: Finding It Hard to Say Goodbye 317

Background	317
What Happened?	321
First Session: Initial Contact	321
Conclusion	332

Chapter 12: Jamal: The Gym Teacher's Concern 333

Background	333
Precontact Preparation	335
Initial Contact	335
Session II	344
Conclusion	348

Chapter 13: Mrs. Ayame Hoshi: Feeling as Half of a Person 349

Background	349
Intake Session	350
Summary of Middle of the Session	355
Employing Cognitive Intervention	355
Conclusion	360
Final Thoughts	360

Epilogue: From the Authors' Chairs 363

Index 367

About the Authors 381

Editors' Preface

Introduction to the Series Counseling and Professional Identity

B*ecoming a Skilled Counselor* is a text that introduces the basic information and fundamental skills required of all who are beginning their journey toward their development as professional helpers. As is obvious, one text—or one learning experience—will not be sufficient for the successful formation of your professional identity and practice. The formation of both this professional identity and practice will be a lifelong process—a process that we hope to facilitate through the presentation of this text and the creation of our series: Counseling and Professional Identity.

Counseling and Professional Identity is a fresh, new, and pedagogically sound series of texts targeting counselors-in-training. This series is not simply a compilation of isolated books matching that which is already in the market. Rather each book, with its targeted knowledge and skills, is part of a larger whole. The focus and content of each text serves as a single lens through which counselors can view their clients, engage in their practice, and articulate their own professional identity.

Counseling and Professional Identity is unique not just in the fact that it “packages” a series of traditional texts, but that it provides an integrated curriculum targeting the formation of the readers’ professional identity and efficient, ethical practice. Each book, within the series, is structured to facilitate the ongoing professional formation of the reader. The materials found within each text are organized to move readers to higher levels of cognitive, affective, and psychomotor functioning, resulting in assimilation of the materials presented into both their professional identity and approach to professional practice. While each text targets a specific set of core competencies (cognates and skills)—competencies identified by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) as essential to the practice of counseling (see inside front cover)—each text in the series will also emphasize each of the following:

1. Assimilation of concepts and constructs provided across the text found within the series, thus fostering the reader's ongoing development as a competent professional
2. Blending of contemporary theory with current research and empirical support
3. Development of procedural knowledge with each text employing case illustrations and guided practice exercises to facilitate the readers ability to translate the theory and research discussed into professional decision making and application
4. Need for and means of demonstrating accountability
5. Fostering of the reader's professional identity and with it the assimilation of the ethics and standards of practice guiding the counseling profession

We are proud to have served as coeditors of this series, feeling sure that each will serve as a significant resource to readers and their development as professional counselors.

Richard D. Parsons, PhD

Naijian Zhang, PhD

Authors' Preface

Becoming a Skilled Counselor

Having a desire to assist or to help another may be ingrained in one's DNA—however the ability to be of assistance, to truly be a helper, requires more than a desire and a caring heart. Competent helpers possess and exhibit certain personal qualities or dispositions and specific knowledge and skills. Parents, for example, when confronted with their child's 102-degree fever will certainly be moved to "help." Regardless of the strength of their desire to help, without the knowledge and skill necessary to address the issue at hand, their desire to help will, at best, be inadequate and at worse detrimental.

Helping when performed in the absence of the required knowledge and skills is not only inadequate but, when provided by one who presents as a "professional" may prove to be both unethical and illegal. Becoming a Skilled Counselor serves as one step toward the development of the knowledge and skills essential to the role of helper and the process of helping. Specifically, this text provides an understanding of the essentials of the counseling relationship, the dynamic of the helping process, and the nature of the theories and research guiding selection and employment of interventions.

Becoming a Skilled Counselor is a book designed to address specific competencies identified by the Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) as essential to developing an understanding of the processes of counseling and the development of a counselor's professional identity (see Table AP.1).

Table AP.1 CACREP 2009 Standards Addressed
	1. PROFESSIONAL ORIENTATION AND ETHICAL PRACTICE	5. HELPING RELATIONSHIPS	7. ASSESSMENT	8. RESEARCH AND PROGRAM
Chapter 1		5a 5b 5g
Chapter 2
Chapter 3		5b 5c
Chapter 4		5c
Chapter 5		5c
Chapter 6		5c 5d		8e
Chapter 7		5g	7b
Chapter 8	1a 1d 1e	5g		8e
Chapter 9	1a 1b 1f 1g 1h 1i	5a 5c 5d 5g
Chapter 10		5b 5c 5d
Chapter 11		5b 5c 5d
Chapter 12		5b 5c 5d

Specifically the goals of this text are to complete the following:

1. Provide the reader with a view of the goals of counseling to include wellness and prevention.
2. Assist the reader's identification of personal motives for becoming a counselor, one's own personal state of wellness, and life adjustments which may be needed when becoming a counselor.
3. Highlight counselor characteristics and behaviors that influence helping processes.
4. Review essential interviewing and counseling skills.
5. Describe counseling theories and models that serve as models for conceptualizing client issues and treatment planning.
6. Review research supporting professional practice and treatment selection.
7. Highlight the need for the employment of measures of accountability.

This text includes extensive discussion and attention given to the specific nature of the helping relationship and the dynamics of the process of helping. As suggested previously, you will be introduced to the unique attitudes and skills required of the effective helper and become familiar with the contemporary theory and research which is used to guide case conceptualization and treatment planning. However, beyond the didactics of the book, the reality highlighted throughout this text, and each text within the series, is that helping another human being at a time when he or she needs our support involves much more than theory or skill application. Serving in the role of counselor is an experience of deep personal responsibility and satisfaction. It is in the blending of your heartfelt desire to help, with your increasing knowledge and skill about the counseling profession and practice, that you will become a true and competent counselor.

MORE THAN THE ACQUISITION OF INFORMATION

Unlike those enrolled in training programs in other “nonhelping” disciplines, those engaging in training as professional helpers need to approach their readings and their training with the intent of moving beyond simple information acquisition to the assimilation of that information into their identity as a professional; this assimilation also applies to the values these trainees employ to guide the applications of this knowledge and skill. To this end, this book, as with the other books within the series, has been structured in a way to promote the reader's assimilation and personalization of the material presented and the development of higher levels of learning, including the ability to value what is presented.

The chapters are designed to include case illustrations, practical exercises, and thoughtful suggestions for future direction. This approach is offered in hopes that you will gain:

1. Cognitive clarity. It is important to not only read the material presented, but reflect on the material and discuss the concepts described with your teachers, classmates, or colleagues. The goal should be to move from simply understanding to assimilating the theories, the constructs, and the concepts presented into your developing professional identity and an approach to helping.
2. Behavioral clarity. You are invited to practice the skills described by completing the exercises, modeling, and role playing, and also requesting corrective feedback from your teachers, classmates, or colleagues. While this practice probably won't make it perfect, it will certainly lead to improvement.
3. Affective clarity. Finally, as you will soon discover, helping is not a sterile, formulaic process. It is an awesome, demanding, and potentially rewarding experience that will touch you deeply. It is important as you continue to develop your professional identity and professional practice to clarify your feelings associated with being a helper, identifying those feelings which are facilitative and those which may be inhibitory to your helping endeavors.

ONE CAVEAT

The very nature of a book—with its static, two-dimensional presentation of life—severely limits the accurate and complete depiction of the helping process—a process that is personal and dynamic.

The information found within this text is presented in nice, linear, and logical steps. This is done because it supports the goals of explanation and knowledge acquisition. However, life is neither linear nor always logical—a point highlighted by the cases presented in Part III.

It is important to remember that the steps and skills described are presented in an artificially static state and that in reality they are employed in a dynamic, intertwined, and spiraling state of reflective practice. As such, we caution you that as you read through the upcoming chapters not to minimize the complexity of the human condition, nor the awesomeness of both the experience and responsibility of being a counselor.

The profession in which you are engaging has both a noble history and a valued future, and its health relies on the ethical, competent participation of members—like you.

Acknowledgments

Many researchers and theorists provide the foundation for the material to be discussed, however the real substance and “life” of the book has been extracted from the many courageous clients and supportive colleagues with whom we have been privileged to work. The illustrations presented throughout the book reflect a composite of the various individuals with whom we have worked. All the names and significant identifying information about the actual cases have been modified in order to insure confidentiality.

While our names appear as authors on this work, we would be remiss if we didn’t acknowledge all those who have helped us in the process. A special thank you goes to each of the following who so graciously reviewed our project and provided valuable suggestions which have made this final manuscript something of which we, and we hope they, are proud. These include: Phu D. Hoang, Texas A&M International University; Geoffrey G. Yager, University of Cincinnati; Sandra Loew, University of North Alabama; James R. Verhoye, Metropolitan State University; Allan A. Morotti, University of Alaska Fairbanks; George I. Mamboleo, Alabama A&M University; Patricia K. McIntyre, Rosemont College; Susan Temperato, Canisius College; Lorraine J. Guth, Indiana University of Pennsylvania; DeDe Wohlfarth, Spalding University; Cheryl Ramey, Eastern Kentucky University; Margaret Carlock-Russo, Hofstra University; Linda Barley, York College, CUNY; Peggy Brooks, Massachusetts College of Liberal Arts; Rolanda Bell, University of Phoenix; and Dorothy Durband, Texas Tech University.

While the aforementioned provided guidance in regard to the content found within this text, it was the special gift and talent of Gretchen Treadwell who, as copy editor, turned our thoughts, our content, into the reader-friendly copy you now hold in your hands.

Finally, we would be remiss if we did not say a very special thank you to Kassie Graves, senior acquisitions editor; Maggie Stanley, associate editor; Elizabeth Luizzi, editorial assistant; and Eric Garner, production editor at SAGE Publications who not only kept us focused and on time, but also provided the much needed support throughout the development of this text.

This book is dedicated to our students, our clients, and our colleagues who have helped us better understand the helping process and the dynamics of change.