Acknowledgements

The books in this series are a departure from traditional law texts and represent one view of a type of learning resource that we feel is particularly useful to students. The series editors would therefore like to thank the publishers for their support in making the project a reality. In particular we would also like to thank Alexia Chan for her continued faith in the project from its first conception.

Jacqueline Martin and Chris Turner

In memory of Joseph Gibson Fairnie

I would also like to thank Dr Steve Foster for updating Chapter 18 on freedom of speech.

This book is dedicated to my mother and my siblings (John, PJ, Gerard, Mandy, Caroline and Maureen) and my nieces and nephews (Jamie, Jonathan, Tara, Natacha, Jade, Sebastian, Celia, Bailey, Dulcie, Ned and Theo).

Preface

The Unlocking the Law series is an entirely new style of undergraduate law textbook. Many student texts are very dense prose and have little in the way of interactive materials to help a student feel his or her way through the course of study on a given module.

The purpose of this series, then, is to try to make learning each subject area more accessible by focusing on actual learning needs and by providing a range of different supporting materials and features.

All topic areas are broken up into 'bite-size' sections, with a logical progression and extensive use of headings and numerous sub-headings. Each book in the series will also contain a variety of charts, diagrams and key facts summaries to reinforce the information in the body of the text. Diagrams and flow charts are particularly useful because they can provide a quick and easy understanding of the key points, especially when revising for examinations. Key facts charts not only provide a quick visual guide through the subject but are useful for revision purposes also.

Note also that for all incidental references to 'he', 'him', 'his', we invoke the Interpretation Act 1978 and its provisions that 'he' includes 'she' etc.

Chapters 1–15 and 18–22 were written by Mark Ryan, and Chapters 16–17 were written by Steve Foster.

The law is stated as we believe it to be on 1 January 2022. NB. At the time of going to print, the Dissolution and Calling of Parliament Bill had become the Dissolution and Calling of Parliament Act 2022. More significantly, in September 2022, the passing of Queen Elizabeth II led to the accession of Charles III as monarch. Accordingly, in light of this, where appropriate references in this text should now be read as the King in Parliament, His Majesty's Government and His Majesty's Judges.
